

Mulodo Inc. Releases Deckkr RollScreen for Easier Web-browsing

San Francisco, September 9, 2008 - Mulodo Inc., a web services company based in Tokyo, Japan, released Deckkr RollScreen, a pop-up tool that lets users get around the web smoothly without opening and shuffling between a lot of different tabs or windows.

Deckkr RollScreen lets users check or send email, do a search, use social bookmarks, watch video content, shop, and more, from whichever webpage they happen to be on – thus eliminating the need to visit a different site for each action.

Deckkr RollScreen also provides a history of viewed pages, a bookmarking function, and when opened on top of a blog site, a list of the most recent entries. When opened over a video sharing site, it displays a list of videos with related content, and when opened over a shopping site, it displays a list of related products.

Deckkr RollScreen is currently available as a Firefox extension.

Deckkr:

<http://www.deckkr.com/>

For more info about Mulodo Inc:

<http://www.mulodo.com/>

info@mulodo.com